A Reflection on the Gospel from the 2015 Living

Liturgy: At the end of a day of preaching and healing, Jesus was no doubt tired. The disciples took him in the boat “just as he was.” So, Jesus fell fast asleep. When a “violent squall” arose, the disciples thought that Jesus didn’t care that they were “perishing.” But Jesus did care, he came precisely to save humanity from perishing. The boat was filling up with water from the waves, while the disciples’ hearts were empty of the depth of faith needed to be calm, to be still, to know that Jesus surely does care for them. The disciples’ faith is weak because the disciples do not yet know who Jesus is and why he came.

After Jesus commanded the sea to be quiet, “there was great calm.” We might surmise that a similar calm washed over the disciples—that their “great awe” brought them to humble silence before this Teacher who had such extraordinary power. Calm comes out of trust. And thus is diverted the real “storm” at sea. The disciples’ faith was tested, and this became an occasion for them to grow in faith and in knowing who Jesus is. So it is with us. The “storms” of our own lives become occasions for us to grow in faith and trust that God is ever present to us, calming whatever threatens us, bringing us to a deeper relationship with the God who cares for us. We have an advantage over the disciples in that boat on a stormy sea: we know who Jesus is. But nevertheless we must still ask the critical question: how strong is our faith?
